Topic of Presentation	Interview and Interrogation Strategies through Verbal and Nonverbal Behavior
Title of Presentation	Evaluating Truthfulness and Detecting Deception through Verbal and Nonverbal Indicators
Length of Presentation	2 hours - 5 days
Presentation Objective	Scientifically vetted and reliable indicators of detecting deception and evaluating truthfulness
Presentation Description	Participants learn how lies "leak out" - primarily through the face and involuntary microexpressions - and how to detect these signs of leakage through multiple channels of nonverbal behaviors. Additionally, participants learn to analyze verbal statements to identify meaningful content areas where "there is more to the story than is being told". Within the law enforcement context, nonverbal behavioral analysis and statement analysis are powerful investigative tools when used separately and until now, these techniques have traditionally been taught separately to law enforcement officers. This course combines the two techniques into a more powerful investigative interviewing and interrogation tool. These techniques make the investigator more efficient and effective and instills greater confidence in his beliefs regarding veracity and deception.
