Title of Presentation	Are you on the team, or just a fan...
Length of Presentation	2-4 hours
Presentation Objective	To motivate and inspire leadership on all levels of service
Presentation Description	This presentation encourages the individual to assess his/her talents and strengths and takes them on a clear journey of how to use them to be a better teammate and (ultimately) a better team leader - regardless of the rank or position they currently hold. This is a high-energy and fast-paced presentation that does not involve PowerPoint or handout material to make its point. A list of people and departments that have benefited from this unique presentation can be provided upon request.
Speaker Bio	Paul D. Butler is the Chief Deputy of the Horry County Sheriff's Office. He has 27 years of experience and has also served with the Aynor and Horry County Police Departments. He was selected to attend Session 220 of the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Virginia in 2005. This 10 week, executive-level training was host to 250 law enforcement officials from 29 countries around the world. Chief Deputy Butler was selected from this group to be their class speaker at graduation

day ceremonies alongside FBI Director Robert Mueller.

Additional Comments

I have spoken at hundreds of events around the nation and currently serve as the "official" Master of Ceremonies of the FBINAA National Conference. My presentations are insightful, thought-provoking, motivating, and entertaining.
